

SCI Solutions Honored with eHealthcare Leadership Award

Consumer-Focused Self-Service Portals Recognized as Best Corporate Business Improvement Sites

Los Gatos, Calif. – December 14, 2010 – SCI Solutions®, the premier Access Management solution provider for healthcare, was honored with an eHealthcare Leadership Gold Award in recognition of its outstanding healthcare Web portals for consumers and healthcare professionals. The awards for best Consumer-Focused Self-Service recognized our Consumer and Provider Portals. The award was presented at the Fourteenth Annual Healthcare Internet Conference in Las Vegas on November 17, 2010. The award represented the category Best Interactive Site in the Corporate Business Improvement Site class.

“The extensive debate on healthcare reform, combined with the need for increased efficiency in a challenging economy, has spurred digital media innovation,” says Mark Gothberg, eHealthcare Leadership Awards chairman. “A substantial number of organizations have made major improvements in their Web sites to better serve current and future customers.”

According to John Holton, CEO, SCI Solutions, “The eHealthcare Leadership Awards validate that SCI’s consumer-focused self-service initiatives are leading the way toward improving hospital business practices by providing consumers with more convenient and efficient web-based portals for ordering of outpatient services, scheduling appointments and pre-registering in the comfort of their own home. Organizations using portal scheduling technologies have a competitive advantage and realize significant operational improvements by enabling self-service solutions for their referring physicians and patients.”

SCI’s Provider and Consumer self-service web portals give healthcare organizations additional avenues to connect to their communities. Whether the physician’s office or patients schedule appointments online, SCI’s software helps to boost productivity and offers timely convenience for accessing healthcare.
